the chase began, and 6 o'clock the following morning, when the final capture was made, the Captain's report makes a lively story of wid, disorderly conduct and red not pursuit over main roads, cross roads, fields and beaches.

The two men picked up Maggie Lee and Mary Manning on the road just out of Seaside and kept on driving towards the park. The girs are servants of good character, employed by cottagers here, and they declare that they thought they were going on an innocent drive.

Qapt. Allen did not receive notification of the taeft in time to overtake the thleves within the first five miles, but as he and his men approached the park they began to hear from people along the road a great deal of the runaways.

On entering the park they met a citizen named Campbell, who told them that there was murder or something of the kind going on down at the shore, and that his brother had gone with a gun to see about it.

Killed.

Capt. Allen and his posse at once turned their horses towards the beach and picked up Campbell and his gun on the way. He reported that the two men had turned back towards the main road,

There the trail grew fresh, and ahead of them once in a while the party could hear a waman's cry. cued from Two Burglars.

John Gilmartin, the burglar, who with a confederate attempted last night to rob the apartments of Mrs. Josephine Ryan, at 347 West Fifteenth street, was arraigned this morning at Yorkville Police Court. His confederate is still a large.

Mrs. Ryan keeps a boarding-house. The boarders had all retired last night, when Manile, Mrs. Ryan's daughter, heard footsteps in the front parlor. She whispered the fact to her mother, and at the same time threw open the folding-doors. Two men were in the act of ransacking the bureau drawers, and, when discovered, turned upon the women, knocked them dewn and choked them.

Mrs. Ryan, however, had screamed for help, and two of the boarders, James Maloy and John Franklin, ran downstains to their alf. Gue of the burglars on catching sight of the two men, fled into the backroom, jumped from the window and escaped over the rear fence, Gilmartin was caught, and held by the two boarders until the police were summoned. Gilmartin is barely seventeen years old. He is now under indictment for burglary. Acting Capt. Kear, of the West Forty-seventh street station, said that the prisoner has made a complete confession. Justice Meade held Gilmartin in $1,900 bail for examination.

But Freda Tired of the Married Man and Wants Him Reld.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 22.-Miss Freda Laucks, of Elizabeth avenue, apbefore Justice Neill to-day and asked for a warrant for the arrest of Emil Heutteman, a married man, thirtyfive years of age, of Spring street, whom she charged with annoying her. His wife and five children are living here. About a year ago Heutteman was sentenced to State prison for five years for embezzling money from an insuranfor abductoing Miss Laucks. was passed off as their son. their disappearance was sent to England, however, and on arriving there they were arrested. Chief Tenney, of the Elizabeth police, went over to Elizabeth police, went over to Elizabeth and brought Heutteman back. On Wednesday last Heutteman was pardoned by the Board of Pardons of New Jersey, on the ground that he would die if he was kept in prison any longer. He had always been sickly and was reported to be sinking fast.

As soon as he was released from prison Heutteman, instead of settling down with his family, began to write loving and insulting letters to Miss Laucks again. He met her on the street once or twice and tried to renew his acquaintance with her, but she would not speak to him. The letters became so numerous and the contents so foolish that the girl decided to have Heutteman arrested.

He haunted her day and night, and, it is said, threatened to kill her and himself if she would not again elope with him. He had written two letters to her from Trenton Prison.

It was noticed that when Heutteman was released from prison on Wednesday last he did not appear to be in any worse health than he was when he was first locked up.

Justice Neill granted the request of the girl for a warrant, but when an officer tried to serve it he found that Heutteman had disappeared. He searched for him, but without success. As he was about to give up the attempt to find him he learned that the man was in Bridgeport, Conn., and that extradition papers would have to be obtained for his removal to Elikabets.

Mrs. Heutteman and her five small children are receiving the sympathy of their neighbors on account of the way in which she has been treated by her husband. On Wednesday last Heutteman was pardoned by the Board of Pardons of

The excusionists who participated in the annual outing of the Ancient Order of Foresters were a sorry-looking lot when they reached home early this morning The steamboat Tolchester, with two barges in tow, left here yesterday morning for a trip up Long Island Sound. A merry day was passed in a greve and no trouble occurred until after the party had embarked for home, when a fight was started by Gus Turner, a local puglist, and a young fellow named Connors, of Bergen Point.

The fight became general and the women and children were locked up in the Tolchester's cabin out of the way of the camp-stools and beer-glasses that

When Bergen Point was reached Con-norm's friends tried to detain the Toi-chester until they could wreak ven-geance on the party, but the hawsen were cut and the trouble ended. There were many broken heads when the Toi-chester reached here.
